

HIS - HISTORY

HIS 111 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)

United States History to 1877

Course surveys political, economic, social and cultural development of the United States from discovery through Reconstruction.

IAI General Education: S2 900

Instruction Type: In-Person | Online

Term Typically Offered: Fall | Spring | Summer

HIS 112 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)

United States History from 1877

Course surveys political, economic, social and cultural development of the United States from the Gilded Age to the present.

IAI General Education: S2 901

Instruction Type: In-Person | Online

Term Typically Offered: Fall | Spring | Summer

HIS 113 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)

History of Native Americans

Course surveys history of Native American peoples in North America from 15th century contact with Europeans to the present. Content focus is on the historical struggle to retain cultures and autonomy while facing the continual expansion of both European nations and United States government and its citizens. Major themes and trends supplemented by case studies of specific tribes and documents that illuminate particular issues.

IAI General Education: S2 923D

Instruction Type: In-Person | Online

HIS 114 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)

Introduction to African American History

Course covers three periods that are central to African American histories: African civilizations, histories of enslavement, and post-Civil War histories. Course includes such concepts and events as the African Diaspora, Black Nationalism, the Great Migration, and African American women's histories. Course explores the importance of historical understanding for challenging white supremacy's ongoing role in US culture.

IAI General Education: S2 923D

Instruction Type: In-Person

Term Typically Offered: Spring

HIS 120 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)

United States History Since 1945

Course examines political, economic, social and cultural development of the United States since 1945.

Instruction Type: In-Person | Online

HIS 121 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)

History of the Vietnam War

Course examines the history and politics of the Vietnam War, beginning with the war between the French and Vietnamese following World War II, ending with the defeat of the South by the North in 1975.

Instruction Type: In-Person | Online

Term Typically Offered: Fall

HIS 131 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)

Western Civilization to 1650

Course surveys political, economic, social, cultural and intellectual origins of Western civilization from the ancient world to the 17th century.

IAI General Education: S2 902

Instruction Type: In-Person | Online

Term Typically Offered: Fall | Spring | Summer

HIS 132 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)

Western Civilization since 1650

Course surveys political, economic, social, cultural and intellectual development of Western civilization from the Baroque Era to the present.

IAI General Education: S2 903

Instruction Type: In-Person | Online

Term Typically Offered: Fall | Spring | Summer

HIS 135 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)

History of the Middle Ages

Course examines the political, cultural and intellectual development of Western Europe from Late Antiquity to the Italian Renaissance. Content includes Roman, Christian, and Germanic contributions to medieval west. The impact of Byzantine and Islamic cultures are also explored.

Instruction Type: In-Person | Online

Term Typically Offered: Fall

HIS 136 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)

Introduction to Jewish Studies

Course offers a general overview of the history of Jews and Judaism, beginning with the Biblical period and ending with modern times. Course is a multidisciplinary introduction to Jewish Studies.

Instruction Type: In-Person | Online

HIS 140 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)

History of Contemporary Non-Western Civilizations

Course surveys the political, social and economic history of selected non-western cultures since 1945. Content includes study of at least four cultures, drawn from Asia, the Middle East, Africa and Latin America.

IAI General Education: S2 905N

Instruction Type: In-Person | Online

Term Typically Offered: Fall | Spring | Summer

HIS 203 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)

History of South Asia I

Course surveys the historical development of South Asia from antiquity to independence in 1947. Content includes social, political, and economic developments. Focus is on the role of intellectual currents, literature and art in shaping the identity of the peoples studied, as well as comparisons and contrast of unifying themes such as early modern global networks of trade, the colonial experience, and the role of religion in experiences of various civilizations.

IAI General Education: S2 920N

Instruction Type: In-Person | Online

HIS 204 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)

History of South Asia II

Course surveys political, economic, social and cultural development of the nations of South Asia since 1947, including India, Pakistan, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka, Nepal, and Bhutan.

IAI General Education: S2 920N

Instruction Type: In-Person | Online

HIS 206 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)

History of the Ancient World: Greece

Course examines the political, economic, social, and cultural history of Greece from the Neolithic era through the fall of the last Hellenistic monarch in 30 BCE.

Instruction Type: In-Person | Online

Term Typically Offered: Fall

- HIS 207 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)
History of the Ancient World: Rome
 Course surveys Ancient Rome, from founding of city in the eighth century B.C., to collapse of the West in the fifth century A.D. Content includes examination of Roman Conquests, Roman politics and government, and reasons for the “fall” of Rome. Focus is on Roman impact on other peoples and cultures, origins and spread of Christianity, emergence of Byzantine Empire, and Roman Legacy.
Instruction Type: In-Person | Online
Term Typically Offered: Spring
- HIS 208 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)
History Of Ancient Africa
 Course surveys the history of Africa to 1885. Content includes the agricultural revolution, Iron Age, migrations of peoples, commerce, early African states and stateless societies, Islam, slavery and the slave trades, European exploration and Christianity, colonial conquest and African resistance. Course also examines the role of oral traditions, linguistic analysis, archaeological evidence and early literature in understanding the complexities of African history.
IAI General Education: S2 920N
Instruction Type: In-Person
- HIS 211 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)
History of Modern Africa
 Course examines political, cultural and socio-economic history of Africa from 1885 to present. Content includes the end of European colonialism, emergence of independent African nation states, neo-colonialism, Africa during the Cold War, rise and fall of African dictatorships, apartheid, ethnicity and genocide, popular movements toward democratization, and impact of globalization. Individual case studies focus on South Africa, Nigeria, Kenya, Uganda, Tanzania, Rwanda, Ghana, Liberia and Democratic Republic of Congo, role of the African novel, film, music and popular art in understanding complexities of African history.
IAI General Education: S2 920N
Instruction Type: In-Person | Online
Term Typically Offered: Fall
- HIS 216 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)
History of Modern China
 Course examines political, economic, and social transformation of China from the 19th century dynastic system to the 21st century modern state. Content includes Confucian value system; collapse of the Qing dynasty; western imperialism; Communist revolution; Great Leap Forward; Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution; legacy of Mao Zedong; and era of Deng Xiaoping and its impact to the present. Current issues addressed include China’s relationship with Republic of China (Taiwan), and China’s role in a global context.
IAI General Education: S2 920N
Instruction Type: In-Person | Online
Term Typically Offered: Fall
- HIS 221 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)
History of Great Britain and Ireland to 1600
 Course examines the political, economic, social and cultural history of Great Britain and Ireland from the Paleolithic era through the end of the Tudor dynasty.
Instruction Type: In-Person | Online
Term Typically Offered: Spring
- HIS 222 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)
History of Great Britain and Ireland from 1600 to the Present
 Course surveys the political, economic, social and cultural history of Great Britain and Ireland from the Stuart Dynasty through the present era.
Instruction Type: In-Person | Online | Hybrid
Term Typically Offered: Spring
- HIS 225 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)
History of the Islamic Middle East from the 7th Century to 1918
 Course surveys the history of Islamic Middle East from birth of Islam to end of First World War. Content includes social, political, and economic developments, and the role of religion in shaping Middle Eastern culture and society. Focus is on the ways in which Islam helped foster a unified political and legal system, and a common identity which provide the backdrop for much of the contemporary political discourse in the region.
IAI General Education: S2 920N
Instruction Type: In-Person | Online
Term Typically Offered: Fall | Spring
- HIS 226 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)
History of the Islamic Middle East in Modern Times
 Course surveys political, economic, social and cultural development of the Islamic Middle East since 1918. Focus is on the role of religion as an ongoing theme.
IAI General Education: S2 920N
Instruction Type: In-Person | Online
Term Typically Offered: Fall | Spring
- HIS 227 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)
History of the Arab-Israeli Conflict
 Course surveys the Arab-Israeli conflict from the beginnings of Zionist immigration into Palestine up to the present.
Instruction Type: In-Person
- HIS 228 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)
History of the Holocaust
 Course surveys the history, background, causes, events, impact, and implications of the destruction of the Jews and others in Europe.
Prerequisite: None
Instruction Type: In-Person | Online
Term Typically Offered: Fall | Spring
- HIS 229 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)
History of Genocide
 Course surveys the history, background, causes, definition, events, impact, implications, and nature of genocide.
Instruction Type: In-Person | Online
Term Typically Offered: Fall | Spring | Summer
- HIS 233 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)
History of Latin America to Independence
 Course surveys the history of Latin America from the pre-colonial civilizations until the wars of Independence in the nineteenth century. Course examines how Native Americans, Europeans and Africans navigated the political, social, economic and cultural consequences of the colonial order.
IAI General Education: S2 920N
Instruction Type: In-Person | Online

HIS 234 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)

History of Modern Latin America

Course surveys the history of Latin America from the period of the Wars for Independence in the early nineteenth century until the present.

Course examines the ways Latin Americans navigate the increasingly transnational world of the early twenty-first century.

IAI General Education: S2 920N

Instruction Type: In-Person | Online

Term Typically Offered: Spring

HIS 235 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)

Women In American History

Course examines women's roles and accomplishments throughout the history of the United States.

Instruction Type: In-Person | Online

Term Typically Offered: Fall | Spring

HIS 236 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)

Women In Western Civilization

Course examines women's roles and accomplishments in Western civilization from prehistory to the present.

Instruction Type: In-Person | Online

Term Typically Offered: Summer

HIS 237 3 credit hours (lecture: 3 | lab: 0)

Women in Non-Western Civilization

Course examines women's roles and accomplishments in non-Western civilization from prehistory to the present.

Instruction Type: In-Person | Online

Term Typically Offered: Summer

HIS 290 1-4 credit hours (lecture: 1-4 | lab: 1-4)

Topics in History

Course explores major historical issues and/or periods of history that are related to history courses taught at the College. Course has different focus and/or scope than the courses currently offered in the department and can be repeated on different topics up to three times for up to nine credit hours. Fee Varies. Prerequisite may vary by topic.

Instruction Type: In-Person | Online